

Drug and Alcohol Reasonable Suspicion Training

Robbie Sarles, and Sean Oswald of RLS and Associates, Inc., will be presenting the Federal Transit Administration's (FTA) Drug and Alcohol Reasonable Suspicion Training. This training meets the Department of Transportation's (DOT) regulatory requirements for reasonable suspicion determination as outlined in 49 CFR Part 655. The training will cover the required 60 minutes of the signs and symptoms of prohibited drug use and 60 minutes of training on the signs and symptoms of probable alcohol misuse.

Topics:

1. Recognizing the short and long-term indicators of drug use;
2. Effects of alcohol and drug use;
3. The individual's role in determining reasonable suspicion;
4. Proper documentation techniques; and individual case studies.

This training is intended for all individuals and managers that supervise FTA safety sensitive employees. The FTA mandates that all supervisors and/or officers that are authorized to make reasonable suspicion determinations receive this training.

After registering you will receive a confirmation email containing information about joining the training.
